

HOPKINSVILLE CIRCUIT COURT

Night Rider Cases Docketed for This Term.

COMMONWEALTH PART OF TERM WILL BE A BUSY ONE.

Hopkinsville, Ky., June 8.—Circuit court opened Monday morning for a four weeks' term, which will probably be extended to eight weeks, Judge Hanbery having intimated that he would call an extra session of four weeks to follow the regular term, in order to clear the congested docket as much as possible. The docket for the term numbers over 500 cases, of which 102 are appearances. The divorce docket is exceptionally heavy.

The commonwealth docket for the term shows a number of important cases listed, which, if trials are held, will make the term one of the most interesting ever held here. Among those cases are the following:

The so called night rider cases in which Dr. D. A. Amos, Newton Nichols, John Robinson, Guy Deaning, H. Malou, alias J. B. Malone, and Irvin Glass are under indictment for complicity in the raid on this city on the morning of Dec. 7, 1907, are set for hearing on the fourth day of the term. H. B. DeTreville and J. B. Gilbreath, former president, and secretary and treasurer of the Acme Mills and Elevator company, who were recently indicted for embezzlement in connection with the mill's affairs will answer on fifth day. Arthur Wilson, colored, charged with rape on the person of a white woman, will answer on the third day. Wilson has had one trial and was sentenced to death, but the case was reversed by the court of appeals. E. C. Outlaw, who shot and killed W. W. Littlefield, as the result of business troubles, is under indictment for murder and his case is set for the seventh day. Otto Armstrong, also charged with murder, is set for the ninth day. Several other cases of more than ordinary gravity are sandwiched in between these and the commonwealth part of the term will be a busy one.

WILD VARMINT DESTROYS STOCK

Panther-Like Creature Has Neighborhood Terrorized—Shots Do Not Affect It.

Providence, Ky., June 3.—Unlured by the hundreds of shots which have been fired at it during the past week, a strange "varmint" which has taken up its abode in the vicinity of the Ruckman's mines is creating much excitement in the neighborhood. Children are not allowed out after dark and men go armed. Two calves and half a dozen sheep have been found mangled in the fields.

The animal is described as being about a foot and one-half tall and three feet long, and resembles a panther. Persons who have seen it declare that the beast has fiery eyes which can be seen in the darkness for a distance and that whenever approached it shows no tendency to flee, but is aggressive and advances upon the enemy with a determination which strikes terror into the heart of the bravest.

Recently the "varmint" was seen by a number of men while passing the mines. Its eyes, like two coals of fire, penetrated the darkness and held them fascinated as the unknown animal approached. The men stopped, as they believed that the beast would hesitate from advancing within shooting range, but they were mistaken, for the balls of fire increased in size and brightness and the strange animal showed no sign of fear as it came step by step nearer.

When within a few yards from where they were standing several of the men opened fire upon the creature, but it paid no heed to the shower of bullets fired at it. The men turned and ran, but were unable to say whether or not they were followed.

Plans are being made to organize a searching party and go in hunt of the mysterious animal. The men in the party will arm themselves heavily and will carry sufficient ammunition to fill the hide of the beast until it is unable to walk if they are unable to kill it outright.

"Wendling left here Jan. 14, 1910, wearing a light checked coat; cheap clothes; pointed shoes; light alpene hat, and wore cheap pine-flute design with mother of pearl, on lapels of the coat. Our information is that he was born in Genis, Cote d'Or, France, and that he is a deserter from the French army. Since he has been in this country he has worked as a common laborer; is drinking man and fond of women. "Wendling has been arrested for attention to young girls in Louisville."

SITE CHOSEN FOR STATUE

Of Gen. Morgan Was Selected by His Comrades.

DAUGHTERS OF CONFEDERACY COMPLETE ARRANGEMENTS

Lexington, Ky., June 4.—At a meeting here of John Morgan Monument Committee of the Confederacy, the location of the equestrian statue of Gen. John H. Morgan was decided on and the sculptor, Pompeo Coppini, was instructed to proceed at once to cast the statue and arrange for erecting it on the spot selected in this city.

After carefully considering the two sites offered for the monument, it was decided to select the one in front of the court house instead of the location in front of the Carnegie Public Library, on Second street, which had at one time been favored. One reason for this decision was the fact that Morgan's men at their annual reunion at Parke's Hill, last August, recommended that the court house site be chosen.

The statue will be located directly in front of the court house, just off the sidewalk, on the concrete walk leading from the main entrance of the court house to Main street. This position was offered the committee and after its acceptance by the committee a resolution was passed thanking them for it.

The money made by the U. D. C. at the moving picture show Saturday night, June 18, will go to help this movement. So come out and assist these ladies.

MAKES SURE OF DEATH

Morganfield Man Drinks Acid, Then Shoots Himself.

Morganfield, Ky., June 5.—Lewis R. Richards was found dead in his room, on Main street, this morning at 8 o'clock. He drank carbolic acid and then shot himself through the temple, but it is not known at what hour the deed was committed. He ate breakfast at home and then went to John Cron's drug store, where he bought the carbolic acid, asking the clerk to label the bottle. As he left the store he joked with the firm's employes about their soda fountain not being in keeping with the other fine ones in town, and left the store in an apparently pleasant frame of mind.

Mr. Richards is survived by his wife, nee Margaret Cromwell, and two children, Mary and William, and three brothers, Dr. William A., Thomas and Aaron. Mr. Richards has been in the mercantile business in this city since a very young man. He was an elder in the Presbyterian church.

For some months he has been despondent about his health, having suffered greatly with insomnia, but other than this no reason can be assigned for his act.

Physicians Puzzled by Death of Hopkinsville Man.

Hopkinsville, Ky., June 5.—John Kennedy, aged twenty-two, died in a physician's office here this afternoon following a minor surgical operation, in which cocaine had been used as a local anesthetic.

Prof. C. E. Dudley Goes To Earlinton.

The Pembroke Journal has the following to say of Prof. C. E. Dudley, the new principal of the Earlinton Public Graded School: Prof. C. E. Dudley, who has been principal of the Pembroke Graded School since its establishment ten years ago, has resigned his position to accept the principalship of the public school at Earlinton. Prof. Dudley will move his family to Earlinton about September 1. During his residence here Prof. Dudley has proven himself a thoroughly capable school man, and his work has resulted in making the local school one of the best in the state.

His resignation is regarded as a distinct loss to the school and the removal of himself and family will prove a regrettable loss to the town. His new position carries with it a handsome increase in compensation, and on this account he did not feel that he could afford not to accept it. He was re-elected to his position here and the school board was greatly disappointed that he could not accept it.

Christian County Man Commits Suicide. Hopkinsville, Ky., June 6.—The body of Joe Crews, aged fifty-four years, was found hanging in a barn on the farm of Charles Smith, near Bennetts town, last night.

Crews had been missing since last Monday and the body had evidently been hanging in the barn ever since, as it was beginning to decompose, and odor from it was what attracted the attention of Charles Taylor and Mr. Smith, who found it.

Crews needed a rope hitch near about ten feet long, which he had tied about a tree pole, and then climbing on a block of wood had fastened the rope about his neck and kicked the block from under him. A note was found in his pocket, stating that his feet gave him much trouble and that no body cared for him and while he hoped God would have mercy and receive his soul.

Crews was related to several of the leading families of this section of the county. His wife is dead and he had no children. Last seen of him was last Monday when he bought some morphine tablets from Dr. Gates, at Herndon, stating that he wanted to use them to relieve the pain in his feet.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

LURE OF GOLD.

A NOTHER "damp" has spread its lure
Where in the shining summer sun
That on Alaska fiercely burns
The sands a golden current run.
And men are straining purse and limb
And doing deeds that shrink the soul
To be the first to reach and reap
The harvest in this distant goal.

Not after learning do they strive,
Nor after honor, place or fame
The treasures that enrich the mind
And cast a lustre on their name
And even love they have forgot
Though it may shroud their guilt,
And turn their eyes and souls and souls
Toward barren lands and golden goals.

All human feelings melt away
As wholeness they approach the goal
That at the end of strife and pain
And better, stern perfection dwells
Their only goal is a golden goal
Their only end is a golden goal
For that they leave the world behind
And mountains tall and towering creep.

And many in the frenzied rush
Who on the day have reached their goal
Will never reach the promised goal
Will falter by the way and fall
And victims of the yellow lure
Will time the long and weary path
Food for the fevered brain and soul
And victims of the gain god's wrath.

The Human Mag.
"He never over-looks a chance to save a cent."
"Saves himself."
"Yes; he cuts off his own britches."

Engaged.
"You understand the running of an auto?"
"Perfectly."
"Know all about the mechanism?"
"Yes."
"What do you consider the most important thing?"
"To fade swiftly and silently away from the scene of an accident."

Discipline.
"When will this outrageous style of women's dresses that lution down the back go out?" inquired the agitated and indignant man.
"Never," replied his companion. "Woman has found a way to keep men humble by using him to unhook her and hook her up, and she isn't going to let go of that advantage."

Horrible.
"They say this house is haunted."
"You bet it is."
"Ghost of murdered woman, I suppose."
"Worse than that."
"What? Worse?"
"Yes."
"What can it be?"
"Bill collectors."

Good Hunt.
"He who fights and runs away—"
"Oh, I know a better one than that."
"You do?"
"You bet I do."
"What is it?"
"He who keeps away doesn't have to either fight or run."

Everything Costs More.
"Judge, I don't think I can pay as much alimony as that."
"Think it is too much?"
"I do."
"You know, all of the necessities of life have gone up."

Have the Interest.
"Do you think women make good barbers?"
"Sure."
"Why?"
"Their mind is on their work."

As Usual.
A miracle full soon will be pulled off before our startled view. For soon the peach crop will appear. That has been killed a time or two.

PERT PARAGRAPHS.
A bird on the hat is worth a dozen in the shop window.
Diplomacy may be defined as the guileful art of getting what you want while handing the other fellow a lemon.
A man isn't necessarily much of a horseman just because he has horse sense.
The reason why a man never forgets his first love is because the present love is always his first love.
An easy mark is an object that offers small resistance and yields rich returns.
The only way to keep a cook is to bodge her round in dollar bills.
What a boy doesn't know about love he reads in yellow covered literature.
The streak of yellow in a man's makeup isn't one of virgin gold.
A wife is a provision of Providence on behalf of man to keep him from making too much of a fool of himself.
There are two things necessary to make a man great. One is to be born great and the other is to have some one discover and appreciate him.

The Chief Consideration

Coach—Now, ladies and gentlemen, if you will take your places we will rehearse the parts in the play. Miss Drew, please go to the left of right center.

Miss Drew—What do you call left of right center? Does it mean when you're looking at the audience, or when you're looking at the stage?

Coach—It means right next to the small table on your left. No, not there. Your left, I said. You left hand is the one that has the diamond ring on.

Miss Drew—Oh, do I have to take that off?

Coach—It isn't necessary. Now, miss Phillips—

Miss Phillips—I wanted to ask you, please, whether you think I should wear pink or light blue?

The Coach—I don't see—

Miss Drew—I am going to wear pink and Mame has decided to have blue.

Miss Phillips—Then I suppose I shall have to wear white. That means that I shall have to have a dress made for the performance for my old one positively isn't fit to be seen anywhere. Would you have an overalls if you were I?

Mame—I am going to have mine made with a simulated overskirt and seven gorse. It is going to be lovely.

Miss Drew—I want a panel down the front, but really—

Coach—if you are ready, gentlemen, Mr. Hardy will stand at the other end of the table, waiting for his cue. There—

Hardy—Excuse me a minute, but talking about dress, am I supposed to wear a frock coat and high hat in the last scene with Miss Drew?

Coach—Certainly.

Hardy—Well, where the dickens shall I put my hat?

Coach—The maid, Miss Davis, takes it as you enter. If you—

Miss Davis—I in my costume the regulation French one?

Coach—Evidently you have not heard at your part.

Miss Drew—You are to furnish the comedy element, Miss Davis, and wear calico and a big apron. You have gloves, rolled up and flour on your arms.

Miss Davis—Oh, I don't believe I'll like that a bit. I want to dress up smartly, with lace on my apron.

Miss Harrison—I'll take that part, then, and you have the part of her younger sister.

Miss Davis—What does she wear, if you please?

Miss Harrison—A ball gown. Not a blue one, because Mame has that color; not pink, because that's Miss Drew's; and not white, because that is Miss Phillips.

Miss Davis—And I can't wear yellow or green or lavender. I'll wear red.

Miss Drew—We have to sit on theavenport together and red will clash terribly with my pink.

Miss Davis—Then we'll have to sit somewhere else. I know just how I'll have it made. It'll be a dream! I'm glad I'm not to be a maid.

Hardy—The maid is the best part in the play and the younger sister isn't on for more than five minutes.

Coach—Now, if we're ready, please begin. Mr. Lawrence, with your opening sentence: "We are all here waiting for the bride and groom—"

Lawrence—Well, say, look here! I didn't know I was supposed to be a wedding. What do I wear? Evening suit?

Coach—Certainly.
Lawrence—Well, great Scott! I've got too stout for mine. Won't a tux do just as well?
Hardy—Should say not. You're supposed to be an usher at the wedding of a millionaire.
Lawrence—That's easily fixed. Let's change the hour of the wedding and have it in the afternoon. Then we can all wear frock coats.
Miss Davis—Then we can't wear evening gowns. I don't think it would be nice a bit.
Coach—It would upset the whole plot. You will have to get a new dress suit, I'm afraid. Now, if you please, Miss Drew—

Miss Drew—Where do I stand?

Miss Drew—You don't stand at all. You sit on the floor of left of right center.

Miss Drew—Sit on the floor! In the gown!

Coach—You won't hurt your dress any, I assure you.

Lewis—I isn't half as bad as I look like. I'm going to come in with my best overcoat covered with flour to look like snow. I've a great mind to wear my old one.

Mame—And I have to throw my hat down where it may be stepped on.

Coach—Now, if you please—

Miss Phillips—Oh, do we wear straps? I'm going to come in wearing my new red cloak.

Coach—You are on the stage all the time and don't wear a coat.

Miss Phillips—Then let's change it so that I can. It will be easy to do that.

Coach—We won't have the time. It's 11 now. That will be all tonight! I think. Don't forget the rehearsal Thursday, and please, look at your parts before you come.

Artist's Repartee.
"How are you getting along with your statue of War?" asked the English painter.
"I'm putting as bold a face on it as possible," answered the sculptor.
Housewifely Instinct.
He—The wind is rising.
She—Probably from the east.

Struck by Automobile.

Hopkinsville, Ky., June 8.—Houston Morris, aged twelve years, son of Magistrate John M. Morris, was struck by an automobile today and seriously injured, both legs being broken and his head badly cut. The accident occurred at the gate of the Western Asylum for the Insane. The boy was coming out on a bicycle, and the car, driven by Robert Stowe, Jr., was starting in. In an effort to avoid a collision both turned sharply, but unfortunately in the same direction.

And Business Will Boom

Foreign Meat in England.
Some English seem to think all meats coming in should be marked either "foreign" or "colonial" to show the buyer that he was not getting English meat. Every one of the chief points would have to be stamped, and the exporter would have to do the stamping. Further, the butcher dealing in "foreign" as well as English meat must announce the fact on his shop front, so that his customers may know he deals in both foreign and English meat. Some of the farmers complain that much foreign meat is passed off as English to bring down their prices.

Burglar in Hard Luck.

What is Education?
"Education," says Prof. Huxley, "is the instruction of the intellect in the laws of nature, under which names I include not merely things and their forces, but men and their ways; and the fashioning of the affections and of the will into an earnest and loving desire to move in harmony with those laws. For me, education means neither more or less than this. Anything which professes to call itself education must be tried by this standard; and if it fails to stand the test, I will not call it education, whatever may be the force of authority, or of numbers, upon the other side."

If you are not satisfied after using according to directions two-thirds of a bottle of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, you can have your money back. The tablets cleanse and invigorate the stomach, improve the digestion, regulate the bowels. Give them a trial and get well.

Mrs. Golightly's Lesson

"Now, dear, I'll teach you how to play chess," said Mrs. Golightly, as she settled herself for the evening. "Get the board and men, and you may bring my pipe, too."

"It's so nice of you to be willing to show me—"

"Of course, my dear, you know it is a man's game—it really belongs to play a good game of chess. I hope you can master it enough to make a game interesting to me some time."

"Yes, dear," answered his wife, meekly.

"Now, Mrs. Golightly, you can't play chess with the board at an angle of 45 degrees."

"Degrees of what?"

"Fahrenheit. Get a higher chair and put your mind on the game—"

"I like this rock; it's comfortable."

"It's against all rules of chess to keep kneeling—"

"I'll put a book on my lap. I've been studying the rules, but I didn't see anything about kneeling."

"Here the book slipped and the board was only saved by the quick action of Mr. Golightly."

"If you think this a 'shoot the chutes,' you are mistaken," he said, severely. "My idea is to teach you chess—if possible."

"I'll get a higher chair," she said, assuming the expression of an early Christian martyr. "I heard how to set the men out of the book, only I want to play with the white ones, 'cause I've been practicing with them."

"What has the color to do with the game? Now I move—so."

Perfect silence for a few minutes.

"It's your move, dear," said Mrs. Golightly.

"Don't I know it? A man has to step to think; he doesn't play any."

"Then why don't you put your castle where I can take it?"

"Because I was trying to show you the game, and I have to talk so much—"

"I thought you said it required silence!"

"It does, unless you are playing with a woman." Here Golightly started to go to one of her men.

"Oh, wait, I haven't taken my fingers off yet. I don't think I'll move it there."

"Very nice, only you can't jump across the board that way. Check to your queen."

"Too bad. I must take your queen. I guess you didn't see my bishop. Do you want me to take it back?"

"I don't play the baby act. If I hadn't been talking to you I should not have moved there."

"Mrs. Golightly swept the queen from the board, and left two men in jeopardy."

"Ahem! I was watching your side—"

"I should think you'd watch your side. I don't see your move."

"Yes, it is."

"No, you moved, and I took your queen and then you—"

"Don't get excited. Keep your temper—if you can. You make me feel that you would be buying a new bonnet," married Mr. Golightly.

"I think I am playing well enough to beat you just the same."

"Certainly when I have to work for me both. You may be able to beat a—"

"a donkey."

"That's what I said," grinned Mrs. Golightly. "Oh!" she shrieked, plunging through an unguarded space. "I'm going to take your king."

"Put that man down," yelled Golightly. "You can't take a king. You don't understand the first rudiments of the game—after all, my teaching—"

"But he is so he can't move."

"That would be checkmate—only I can move here."

"No you can't. My man guards that."

"Well, if you can't play a simple game of chess without yelling like a Comanche—"

"What's a Comanche? Anyway, you can't move."

And Golightly looked what he wanted to say.

Wife's Confidential Way.

Little Wes had been brought up to be polite, and not to interrupt when there was company unless it was very important. He always remembered this and kept very quiet. One day there were visitors who talked and stayed and stayed, until poor little Wes was tired. He wished them to go, but not for anything would he let them see a sudden.

All of a sudden he thought of a nice plan that his mother and father knew when he was too fat to spell and they did not want to hurt his feelings, so in a little pause in the ladies' talk, Wes said, in the prettiest way: "Mother, please can't we be alone?"

And all the visitors laughed and kissed him goodby, and gave him his good mother all to himself—YOUTH'S Companion.

The Hat and Royalty.

The hat plays a considerable part in civilization as a sign and a symbol, quite apart from its purpose as a shelter against the weather. In the Mother of Parliaments, the etiquette regarding it is so elaborate that new members frequently find themselves involved in difficulties. There are two peers who to this day possess the right of remaining covered in the presence of royalty, if they care to exercise it. And the king always looks on his field marshal's hat before he reads the speech to the assembled lords and commons.—London Chronicle.

A GOOD WOMAN GONE

Mrs. M. E. Hodge Passes Away at the Residence of Her Daughter.

Mrs. M. E. Hodge, widow of Billie Hodge, died Tuesday night, at 10:30 o'clock, at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Kinney Carroll, of organic heart trouble. She has been a sufferer for a number of years, growing gradually worse lately and her death was not unexpected. She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Jas. West, of Sacramento, three daughters and one son, Mrs. Geo. Adcock, of Webster county, Mrs. Wall Vincent, of Brownsville, Muhlenberg county, and Mrs. Kinney Carroll, and Mr. Thos. Hodge, of this place.

Mrs. Hodge was a good woman and loved by all who knew her. She was born near Louisville, Ky., in the year 1837, being 73 years old at the time of her death. She came to Earlinton in the year 1858, and has been a resident of this place most all the time since. Her remains were laid to rest in the cemetery here at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Clark. THE BEK extends sympathy to the sister and children in the hour of their bereavement.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to thank the citizens for the kindness and sympathy shown us during the illness and death of our sister and mother, Mrs. M. E. Hodge.

Mrs. JAS. WEST

Philosophy.

There are some people—and I am one of them—who think that the most practical and important thing about a man is still his view of the universe. We think that for a landlady considering a lodger, it is important to know his income, but still more important to know his philosophy. We think that for a general about to fight an enemy, it is important to know the enemy's number, but still more important to know the enemy's philosophy.—Gilbert K. Chesterton.

To a Chemist.

"I want you to prepare for me a formula for making the best pumpkin pie that can be made," said the pie manufacturer to the chemist. "I want you to use turpentine and ocher and potato flour and all the things my rivals use, and have beaten them a little bit at their own game, but now I want to put out a pumpkin pie that will simply outclass all other brands. I will pay you whatever fee is right for the work."—Life.

Knew What She Wanted.

Customer—"My wife told me to stop in and buy her a bathing suit. What are your prices and sizes?" Dealer—"We have a very nice one here that I'm sure she will like. A fifty-dollar suit will just cover it." Customer—"That is just about the size she wants. How much is it?"—Springfield Union.

Unique System of Voting.

In Belgium and in Holland a black square with a white spot in its center is printed opposite the name of each candidate. The elector votes by blackening out as many of the white spots on his paper as he is entitled to; he who folds it and drops it into the box.

Less Exacting Circumstances.

"I wonder how George Washington managed to get through life without uttering a single falsehood?" "Oh, conditions were easier in his day. The public did not expect a constant flow of epigrams from its celebrities."

Distinctions.

"Do you think that current literature is a dignified and desirable profession?" "It depends," replied Miss Cayenne, "on whether you are a publisher or a dollar-a-worder."—Washington Star.

Proper Estimates of Values.

Life is appraised because we fail to estimate values. We think too much of trifles. The sick woman toils away at her needle, and she is proud, she thought darning socks was more important to her children than her own life.

The Pity of It.

The blighting of love's young dream. Pathetic advertisement in an Auckland paper: "Wanted to sell engagement ring (five rubies), almost new."—New Zealand Leader.

Underground Population.

There are about 25,000 worms to an acre of cultivated land.

Foreign Waiters in London.

There are said to be 130,000 foreign waiters employed in London.

World's Vital Statistics.

It is computed that 67 people die, and 70 are born every minute.

Popping Corn and a Question

"Ah!" said Mr. Luckey, advancing into the room. "A wood fire!"

"Yes," smiled Miss Dotly, looking up. "Isn't it nice?"

"Fine!" exclaimed Mr. Luckey, sitting on the edge of a chair. "Fine!"

"It always looks so—so—began Miss Dotly.

"No!" cried Mr. Luckey.

"No, I didn't mean that; but so—so—"

"No, not warm exactly, but so—so—"

"So homelike!" he asked.

"Yes," she softly answered, making eyes at him, and she sank on a hassock by the side of the fire, as though in any contemplation of this scene as a homelike spectacle, she was going to be in the picture.

"Place your own fireplace in your room," she asked, striving to present to his mind the antithesis of his present state of momentary happiness.

"No," he murmured; "no such luck."

"Poor boy!" she whispered to the fire.

"Poor boy!" he repeated mournfully.

"I draw up your chair a little nearer," she kindly said to him. "Then—"

"Yes," he said to the fire.

"Fine!" said Mr. Luckey. "Fine!"

Did you ever see anything like the way it rained today?"

She frowned slightly and was apparently about to change the subject, but thought better of it at the last moment.

"I hope it won't rain tonight," she said.

"No do," he said.

"I always feel sorry when you have to leave in the rain."

"No do," he said.

She made eyes at him again, sighed at the silence more in sorrow than in anger and all at once looked brisk and excited.

"Gracious!" she cried, "I nearly forgot!"

"Forgot what?" he asked.

"I've got a corn popper and a lot of corn. Shall we make some popcorn?"

"Yes!" he cried. "That would be lots of fun."

She ran out into the kitchen and took the corn popper from a book.

"Where's the corn, Sarah?"

"I asked you the corn won't pop!" exclaimed the cook. "I told you once and told you again, that for corn ain't the kind to pop."

She took the corn nevertheless and went back into the parlor.

"They," she said, "you put the corn in the popper like this, and then you hold it over the fire. If you'll move over a little in that chair—"

He moved over obediently and she sat down beside him. It was one of those large, comfortable Turkish rockers with high arms and back, just right for two, and as she leaned over to pour the corn the cosy light of the fire played on her face and showed just where her dimples were.

She shook the popper with a vigorous arm; he moved over to give her more elbow room.

"I don't pop," she pouted.

"They," she said, "you put the corn carefully, both leaning forward, with their heads very close together."

"You hold it," she said; but as he took the handle she cried, "Wait!"

and seized the popper again, unconsciously placing her hand over his.

"I thought I saw one pop!" she cried.

"No," he said, taking it. "I don't see any."

She took the popper from him and holding it over the fire she fell to shaking it again, crying:

"Pop! Pop! Hang you, pop! Don't you see I'm getting for you to pop!"

Pop! pop! pop! I tell you, I never saw anything so slow in all my life! What's the matter with you anyway? Don't you know how to pop? Good grief! Pop! pop! Isn't there any pop in you? Pop! pop! pop, I tell you, POP!"

And as she shook the handle, oh, ever so vigorously, a hand was hastily placed over hers, an arm was timidly placed about her waist—and Mr. Luckey popped.

Sad End to Boyish Prank.

A number of April fool stunts which Harry Edwards and his younger brother, Fred, played in the attic of their home at Arlington, N. J., resulted in the death of Harry. The two brothers were going to an April fools' party, but before they left they went up to the attic of the house. Fred left his brother for a few minutes to get something downstairs. When he returned he discovered Harry hanging from a rafter. He called to him but received no answer. Around his neck was a thin leather strap, such as the boys use for their school books. Fred cut this and his brother dropped to the floor dead. The only explanation the police could get was that Harry probably wanted to fool his brother and make him believe that he had hanged himself. He stood up on a couch and may have slipped off accidentally.

Mr. Aden in Europe.

Second Assistant Secretary Aden of the state department is on his usual vacation in Europe. In company with Mr. Thacker, United States consul general at Berlin, and Mrs. Thacker, he will devote about six weeks to a bicycle tour of southern France. He expects to return to Washington about the middle of June.

Settlement of Britain.

It is quite generally held by students of the ethnic migrations across Europe that the Irish are of a race older than the British, but that they settled in Britain first and then moved on to Ireland under the impulse of later wars behind them. The settlement of Scotland is still a point of dispute, as a crowding of the same race to the northward, upon which was later overlaid a backward migration from the north of Ireland to the nearest point of Scotland.

A Minute Lamp.

Physicians occasionally use, for the purpose of illuminating parts of the interior of the body, a delicate electric lamp, called the "pen lamp," because its little glass bulb resembles a small pen in size, being only one-quarter of an inch in diameter. It is, nevertheless, a complete incandescent lamp, having a carbon film one-eighth of an inch long and about one two-hundredths of an inch in diameter.

Suggested Improvement.

Chinese Fantasy.

Charity.

How often it is difficult to be wisely charitable—to do good without multiplying the sources of evil. To give alms is nothing unless you give thought also. It is written, not "blessed is he that feedeth the poor," but "blessed is he that considereth the poor." A little thought; and a little kindness are often worth more than a great deal of money.—John Ruskin.

Shrumples the Wits.

Isn't it strange what boldness will lead a man to do? There is some sense in the action of that minister who resigned because he lost his Dutch and thereby cleared the way for a succession of colds, but imagine the wonderful possibilities in the thick tank of that man who had a spider's web tattooed on a dome that was as smooth as a tin roof!

Frauds.

Some frauds succeed from the apparent candor, the open confidence, and the full blaze of ingenuously that is thrown around them. The slightest mystery would excite suspicion and ruin all. Such stratagems may be compared to the stars; they are discoverable by darkness and hidden only by light.—Colton.

So Look Out.

Just because the sentimental girl looks rapturously up at her lover and calls him "My king!" during their engagement, he must be surprised if she expects him to bring the ashes, and wipe the dishes, and sniff the coal, after they are married.

Appropriate.

RAILROAD BILL TO CONFERENCE

PASSAGE OF TAFT'S PET MEASURE BY SENATE IS NOT FINAL ACTION.

MORE BREAKERS AHEAD

Many Points of Difference in House and Senate Bills Pressed Fight—The Measure is Much Mutilated.

Washington, June 6.—"A step forward" is the explanation made by many senators of their action in voting for the senate railroad bill. It is the reason close contention on many important points was followed by the overwhelming vote of 50 to 12 in favor of the bill when it was passed. It was a case of taking that or nothing, and the dissatisfied ones decided to accept the bill for the good it contained and to hope for the day when the objectionable features might be eliminated by amending the new law.

The creation of a court of commerce which is to be devoted entirely to the consideration of cases growing out of the interstate commerce law will be the hardest to swallow by progressive senators. Against the court there was urged the claim of lack of necessity; that, if it had been in existence during the last three years it would have been called upon for the trial of only 25 cases; that its creation would be an unconstitutional act; that it was unwise to place such tremendous interests as are involved in the transportation business under the jurisdiction in such a small body of men; that in time, by their influence, they would be able to control the bench of the court, and that its creation was a useless expense.

Features Repealed.

The features most favorable to railroads were eliminated before the final vote was reached. These provided for the repeal of the anti-Sherman antitrust act to the extent of permitting railroads to enter into agreements as to rates; for the removal of railroads and for the alleged control by the interstate commerce commission of the issue of railroad securities. The latter, said Senator La Follette, was a provision in the bill which was intended to give the railroads six different ways of insuring watered stock. There are a number of provisions in the senate and house bills that are identical in terms and these can not be altered by the conference committee.

Expert statements have said some of which will have a beneficial effect in keeping freight rates within bounds, but for the most part they are clear only to people skilled in the transportation problem.

A balm for the hurt is offered by a provision in each bill permitting railroads to issue passes to the families of persons who are killed by trains.

Water Traffic Protected.

If a railroad lowers rates to kill competition by water it can never raise those rates without the consent of the interstate commerce commission.

The commerce court is in both bills.

Shippers may be represented in the commerce court on appeals from decisions of the interstate commerce commission, a right denied them by the bill in its original form.

Railroads are prohibited from charging more for a through rate than for the aggregate of the local rates.

A heavy penalty is provided for railroad employers who give false information to shippers who ask for rates.

A shipper, in case there are competitive routes, may dictate the route over which his goods shall be carried.

Revere, a great grandson of Paul Revere of revolutionary fame. The will has just been probated at Morristown, N. J., and disposes of an estate valued at $150,000.

Fire Destroys British Steamer.

Bombay, June 3.—After finding death for days on a floating inferno the crew of the British steamer Trefalgar was landed here. The vessel was abandoned after all efforts to quell the fire in the cargo of coal had failed. The Trefalgar, owned by Glen & Co. of Glasgow, was built in 1901 at 2280 tons. She was 380 feet long.

St. Paul Is Double-Tracking.

ORDERED TO SHOOT FATHER, ENDS LIFE

Young Turkish Soldier Hangs Himself in Cell, Awaiting His Punishment, Commander Plans Ordeal.

Berlin, June 4.—While awaiting punishment in the 'askar prison for refusing to take part in the execution of his own father by a firing squad, a Turkish soldier named Affa hanged himself in his cell. The soldier's father, Affa Bey, was a prominent Albanian magnate who joined the revolution. He was taken to prison by a detachment of soldiers in which his son was serving as a private.

Affa Bey was sentenced to death and Maj. Risa Mirza Bey, in command of the Turkish detachment, sought to add a more tragic note to the execution by placing the condemned man's son in the firing squad.

The young man pleaded to be executed from such a terrible ordeal, but the commanding officer was obdurate. When the word was given to fire the son raised his rifle and fired into the air. Maj. Risa Mirza Bey immediately placed him in prison.

FOLK'S FRIENDS AT FEAST

Is Indorsed for President at Blow-out of Members of Missouri Democratic League.

St. Louis, June 4.—Former Governor Joseph W. Gurnea, whom his friends are booming for the Democratic nomination for president in 1912, probably received a greater ovation from the Missouri Democratic league at the Folk-for-president banquet at the Southern hotel than was ever accorded him in his campaigns throughout the state.

More than 500 members of the league from practically every county in Missouri were present. The meeting was headed by Chairman Len Sanders of St. Louis, and the meeting was presided over by W. D. Vandiver, former.

Insurance commissioner and former congressman.

All the state Democratic officials at Jefferson City attended and indorsed the movement to make Governor Polk presidential nominee. His candidacy was also indorsed by James A. Reed of Kansas City, candidate for United States senator, and Norman J. Coleman, secretary of agriculture in President Cleveland's cabinet.

It is probable that the meeting will result in the permanent organization of the league in the interest of Folk for president.

Earlington People Receiving the Full Benefit

There have been many cases like the following in Earlington. Every one relates the experience of people we know. These plain, straightforward statements will do much to relieve the suffering of thousands. Such testimony will be read with interest by many people.

Mrs. R. A. Smith, Wilson St., Earlington, Ky., says: "I am glad to publicly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. My kidneys were badly disordered and the pains in my back were so acute that I could not stoop without suffering severely. The pain often extended into my sides and became more severe if I stood for awhile. I had dizzy spells and many times was forced to grasp something in order to steady myself. I also suffered from terrible headaches and many days could scarcely get out of bed. I can safely say that I spent more than one hundred dollars for medicines and doctors' treatments, but I obtained scarcely any benefit. On the advice of a friend, I procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at the St. Bernard Drug Store, and began their use. This remedy cured me in less than two weeks."

FIFTY ARE KILLED BY QUAKE IN SOUTH ITALY

NUMBER OF INJURED ESTIMATED AT SEVERAL HUNDRED.

Five Towns Buffer Heavily in Cyclone—King and Queen Cheer as They Depart for Soons.

Rome, June 5.—Great apprehension has been caused again by seismic disturbances, the official reports showing that the zone affected by the earthquake shocks is a vast one, embracing practically the whole of southern Italy, as well as a portion of Tuscany and Venetia to the north. But the district where serious damage occurred, only extends about 50 miles around Mount Vulture, which is an extinct volcano, near the town of Castelluccio di Gubbio.

The number of casualties resulting from the earthquake has not yet been ascertained. Some reports estimate the dead at fifty and the injured at several hundred.

It is feared there are many buried in the ruins of houses which were thrown down in Castelluccio, while great damage was done at other places, with doubtless considerable loss of life.

The king left immediately for the district. He intended to go alone, but Queen Helena insisted upon joining him.

The king and queen were cheered by the crowds at the station, but they hurried to the train and carefully inspected the medical and other supplies.

Misfortune seems to have chosen Italy as a target. While the south has been afflicted by an earthquake, the south of France, the largest island in the Mediterranean after Sicily, was ravaged by a violent cyclone.

The towns of Lannet, Tortol, Rhon, Rhil and Jerzu have been devastated and the crops, vineyards and cattle destroyed.

Governor Carroll Wins

Iowa Executive Renominated Over Gannt by 10,000—Smith and Kennedy Are Winners.

Des Moines, Ia., June 5.—Returns from the Republican primaries over Iowa show Governor B. F. Carroll has a majority of 10,000 over Warren Gannt, the progressive candidate.

The First congressional district went for Congressman C. A. Kennedy, regular, by over 2,000 over S. W. Brookhart, progressive. In the Seventh district E. P. Frost, is nominated over Congressman Hull.

While Congressman Smith's supporters insist that his election is assured, progress leaders here assert that the return in Smith's territory are far too scant to justify the claim that the progressive candidate, Attorney General Hyatt, has been defeated.

Following Republican congressional tickets indicated by incomplete returns eight progressives and three standpatters.

First District—C. A. Kennedy, regular.

Second—Charles G. Glick, progressive.

Third—E. C. P. Frost, progressive.

BEER TAX CALLED UNWISE

Brewers in Convention Say Increased Price Drives Men to Stronger Drink and Intemperance.

Washington, June 5.—Brewers representing 90 per cent of that business in the country are assembled in Washington to attend the fifth annual convention of the United States Brewers' Association. President Carl Hoyer delivered his annual address today and Representative Boutwell made one of the principal speeches.

It is expected that the convention will adopt resolutions protesting against the "unwise taxation of beer," which the brewers say increases the price of the beverage, "driving men to stronger drink and intemperance."

Springfield, Ill., June 5.—Hundreds of local optionists from all sections of the state are here to attend the state convention and rally. The resolutions adopted demand the enactment of laws making the county the unit instead of the township as at present.

Bank to Serve Five Year Term.

Cleveland, June 5.—The state supreme court decided that U. G. Walker, president of the defunct South Cleveland Banking company, must serve his five-year sentence for perjury. Walker was found guilty of aiding in perjury in swearing to false statements as the bank's condition.

A Storekeeper Says:

"A lady came into my store lately and said: 'I have been using a New Perfection Oil Cook-Stove all winter in my apartment. I want one now for my summer home. I think the oil stove is wonderful. If only women knew what a comfort they are, they would all have one. I spoke about my stove to a lot of my friends, and they were astonished. They thought that there was small and smoke from an oil stove, and that it heated a room just like any other stove. I told them of my experience, and one after another they got one, and now, not one of them would give me up for five times its cost.'"

The lady who said this had thought an oil stove was all right for quickly heating milk for a baby, or boiling a kettle of water, or to make coffee quickly in the morning, but she never dreamed of using it for difficult or heavy cooking. Now she knows.

Do you really appreciate what a New Perfection Oil Cook-Stove means to you? No more coal to carry, no more coming to the dinner table on tired feet that you can't get up to the kitchen to get the coffee. But the heat from an intense blue flame heats up the bottom of the pot, kettle or stew. But the room isn't heated. There is no smoke, no heat outside the house, no drudgery in the kitchen where one of these stoves is used.

New Perfection WICK BLUE FLAME Oil Cook-stove
